How to make money while you sleep

Tick-tock. Tick-tock. Tick-tock.

Time equals money. A person who has a job or who owns a small business trades his time for money. If you put in eight hours of work, you'll get an equivalent of eight hours of pay. There is a limit to your income unless you work overtime. And then, if you suddenly get sick or disabled, your income stops. Same goes when you sleep...no money is coming in. Now let me ask you. When you are sleeping, time equals nothing...zero, zilch, nada or no income. Do you agree? Hmm, it is further from the truth.

For many people, the idea of making money while you sleep is plainly ridiculous. Majority of us were brought up believing that getting a good education, having a stable job or becoming a business owner are the only paths to earning a decent income. If this is your current reality and you are happy with the income that's coming in every month, then stop reading this. But if you are simply curious about this so-called "making money while you sleep" phenomenon and are serious about improving your current financial state, then read on.

Make money while you sleep

"If you don't find a way to make money while you sleep, you will work until you die." ~ CEO Warren Buffet ~ the most successful investor in the whole world.

Residual income, otherwise known as passive or recurring income, is income that is continuously generated after the initial effort has been expended. Examples include owning rights to a book where the author earns royalties with every book that is sold, owning a property portfolio where rents are paid on a weekly or monthly basis, or investing in trading which can be quite risky but the dividends are huge when you know what you are doing.

On the other hand, linear income is a one-off payment or one-time compensation in the form of a fee, wage or salary for services rendered. Majority of the population focus on and earn a linear income. Examples include working as an employee in a company and earning a monthly wage, working as a tradesman like a plumber and earning a fee for the services rendered, or owning a small business like a hair salon where income earned is dependent on the number of customers or services availed.

Wouldn't it be nice to just sit around, do nothing whole day long and receive an income 24/7? I say, it's wishful thinking. If you want to embark on something that will produce an income for you over and over again, you need to put in time, effort, commitment, and of course, a bit of capital. Some people still believe that they can get something for nothing.

There are seven essential attributes of a residual income business. The first attribute is: (1.) It should have a product or service that people need, or offer a solution to a problem. (2.) It should take as little time as possible to set-up and start earning your first residual income. (3.) It should be easy to operate, even for those with no prior knowledge of running a business. (4.) It should be sustainable, that is, provide you with a steady income 24/7 even while you are sleeping. (5.) It should be affordable, which means you're not left out of pocket big-time. (6.) It should be "transportable," meaning, you can go on holiday anytime you wish and still be earning profits. You are not stuck to a physical shop. And lastly, (7.) It should be marketable and people would want to avail of your products or services because of the benefits they can get.

If having a residual income is starting to make sense to you, then take note of the many potential benefits you'll reap as you embark on this journey. First, you have the potential to be financially free if your efforts produce sufficient income. Secondly, you can spend time doing the things that you love to do. It frees up time for you to focus on your passions and hobbies. If you have been "putting off" taking up an art class or finishing a project because you don't have enough time, then now you can! Thirdly, having a residual income takes away the worry and emotional stress associated with having just enough money to live by. In times of sickness or emergency, you still have a constant flow of money to pay for your daily needs. Lastly, you are not stuck to a job, which allows you freedom of movement to travel anywhere in the world.

The Power of The Internet To Make Money While You Sleep

The advent of the Internet opened doors where before there were only walls. The world somehow became borderless because anyone can connect with anybody, from virtually anywhere in the world, for as long as there is an internet connection. Mind you, people can now surf the Internet while on board an aircraft thousands of feet above the ground.

With the popularity of the internet, social media giants like Facebook, Youtube, Twitter, Instagram, Snapchat and the like, flooded the internet space like never before. Even Google, the world's leading online advertising company became an official word in the dictionary owing to its popularity as a search engine. People became hooked to the internet and it didn't take long for these companies to discover the potential of attracting prospective customers and rake in millions of dollars.

As of May 2016, figures show that Google is worth $498 billion and is the world's most valuable company, followed closely by Apple.

It didn't take long before these companies, especially Google and Facebook offered online advertising as a way for businesses to promote their products and services to a hungry market. An X amount of money as advertising fee is paid out to Google and Facebook by business owners every time someone clicks on their advertisement. Today, Google and Facebook are multi-billion dollar companies owing to their targeted online advertising platform.

You might ask, "Why is it important to know all these things in relation to making money while you sleep?"

Well, it is very important to know all these things about the internet because our current reality dictates we either go with the flow or stagnate. We need to adapt, in fact, evolve with the changing times while embracing the possibilities of earning an income in a non-traditional way.

I know for a fact that most people will reject the idea of working in a non-traditional way using the internet as a tool, mostly for fear of dealing with "techie" stuff. But this is not entirely the case because anyone can learn new stuff, however "techie" they may seem, if one has the will and the right attitude. Truth is, I personally abhorred all things "techie" but surprisingly, due to my desire to follow my passion for writing, I ended up learning how to set up my own blog. Furthermore, I learned that it is not too complicated as it seemed to be.

And now, to answer your biggest question which is, "Can You Really Make Money While You Sleep?" The answer is a big, resounding, matter-of-fact, "YES!"

Make money while you sleep

Because the internet never sleeps, online business owners, with the aid of automated payment systems will always make money online even while they sleep. Like clockwork, money will come in, even at odd times of the day like 11:01 pm or 3:03 am, while the world is snoozing. Hence, you'll see from time to time, internet marketers posting on Facebook about "making money while you sleep."

Nowhere is the idea of making money while you sleep or earning a residual income more real and evident, while possessing all the seven attributes I've outlined above except in the concept called profit sharing. Google and Facebook share their profits only with their shareholders, even though we click on their advertisements. Isn't it fair that we get to share in their profits? But no, they keep all the profits to themselves, therefore making billions of dollars a year from advertising alone.

An innovative concept of profit sharing has emerged, whereby ordinary people like you and me, can earn profits instantly by becoming a member and participating in the completion of several tasks. The overall objective is the same as Google's or Facebook's, that is, profit from online advertising. By comparison, this innovative platform shares all of its profits with its members every 20 minutes, 24/7, and yes, you make money even while you sleep!

It is a very simple concept and it's even simpler to execute the twelve tasks. In fact, you are doing it already! Do you share posts on your Facebook profile? Isn't it when you find an amusing post like a photo or video in your Facebook news feed, you click and share it with your friends? Do you click on ads while browsing the internet in your spare time? It's definitely a fun way to earn unlimited profits for as little as 12 minutes a day, while helping to promote other people's businesses as well as yours.

So you see, earning an income is not limited to having a 9-5 job, nor is it limited to owning a traditional business. The world has truly changed, I believe, for the better. Everything can be run from your fingertips, literally. In fact, thousands of ordinary people from around the world are cashing in on the internet boom and are today living the so-called "laptop lifestyle."

I myself, have been borne and bred in the traditional way of doing business. I helped set up 2 successful businesses from scratch, operated a franchise business and managed my family's business for a couple of years. I can tell you, running your own traditional business is fun and empowering, however, it involves a lot of hard work. The amount of income that you make is based purely on how much time and effort you put into your business.

Traditionally, people have been trading their time for money. To cite an example, an ordinary employee will put in 40-60 hours of work per week for an X amount of money. If you are an employee and reading this post, you know that on top of the X amount of time you are actually devoting at work, you are putting in an extra 2-4 hours for preparation and travel time to and from work. This amounts to almost 10-20 hours of unpaid work per week!

When you hold a job, your boss dictates when and for how long you can take a leave or holiday. Dealing with the stresses of traffic, office politics, difficult clients and unreasonable co-workers are everyday realities which can eventually take a heavy toll on one's health. But the sad part is, there is a ceiling to how much you can earn which is based on the amount of time you put into your work. For example, if you worked forty hours a week, you'll get paid the equivalent of forty hours' wages, no more...no less.

The same rule applies to small business owners or self-employed people like accountants, lawyers and tradesmen. Because they trade their time for money, when they stop working due to illness or injury, their cashflow stops. Of course, they have the advantages of being their own boss, however, the stresses they face are way more than an ordinary employee experiences.

Taking a much-needed break from working in your own business like going for a holiday, is sometimes extremely impossible. Dealing with day-to-day operations, staff and customer issues and recurring bills or overheads are a sad reality. Furthermore, your R.O.I. or return of investment can sometimes take several years to recoup.

On the other hand, the amount of profits earned can never overrule the perceived sense of satisfaction that one feels when running a value-based business. That is the reason why I have a lot of admiration for business owners because it takes a lot of courage, effort and time in the pursuit of passion to start and run a business. Moreover, I regard highly all employees who love their jobs because their work is their calling. Indeed, each one of us has a contribution to make in this world.

Make money while you sleep

But my point here is, there is another way...a simpler, more convenient and cost-effective way of earning a residual income at this point in our lives. Opportunities exist all around us...all it takes is the will to look them up and seize them with both hands.

To all employees working the 9-5 grind and traditional business owners who are reading this, let me ask you, " Can you still make money while you sleep?" Well, if a non-techie mom like me can do it, so can you! I made my first money online in literally less than an hour using this innovative profit sharing platform. This, plus the opportunity to live a work-life balance has allowed me to spend more quality time with my young son.

I know that my vision of having true time and financial freedom, while pursuing my passions, will never be a reality if I keep relying on my job as my main source of income. This inner drive forced me to seek people who have become successful by making money work for them. It wasn't easy as there were many scams posing as legitimate businesses on the internet, preying on desperate people looking for a way out.

"If you want to be successful, find someone who has achieved the results you want and copy what they do and you'll achieve the same results." ~ Tony Robbins, Motivational Speaker

Luckily, I met my mentor who in less than two years, is now a successful online entrepreneur and is literally making money online while he sleeps! He had no previous online experience being an electrician himself, had quit his job to work from home and now spends his time doing what he loves.
